A loooong while ago I posted about using PQA to teach kids to restate the question in their answers and to help their responses on constructed response questions. After hearing from teachers from all over, I realized that 1) Many people don't call restating the question PQA and 2) It's a struggle for kids all over.

Ideas to help kids Restate the Question in the Answer

The second-grade teacher Julie Grimm uses a "10 by 10" exercise, in which kids are encouraged to come up with 10 great questions about a topic during a 10-minute span. But the bottom line is, designate some kind of safe haven in the classroom where all students can freely exercise the "questioning muscle."
