James Loewen has revised Teaching What Really Happened, the bestselling, go-to resource for social studies and history teachers wishing to break away from standard textbook retellings of the past. In addition to updating the scholarship and anecdotes throughout, the second edition features a timely new chapter entitled "Truth" that addresses how traditional and social media can distort current events and the historical record.

Every history teacher should read Teaching What Really Happened. I also recommend this book to anyone who has even a passing interest in history. I do not think there is anything scandalous in suggesting that teachers should assign more interesting work than the textbook.

Teaching What Really Happened - Goodreads

Teaching What Really Happened shows how the study of history can reverse this trend. Loewen focuses on key narratives in history, such as "presentism" or "chronological ethnocentrism." In a chapter on the "tyranny of coverage" he suggests that history teachers pick 30-50 key topics to teach.
