Im working with 6mm Meranti on my Chris Craft restore and its not very bendy. I've got some decent compound curves near the bow. It occurred to me that I might could bend the plywood with a heat gun? I experimented last night and got a little bend out of them but not much and the springback this morning was significant. I don't want to steam bend because: (1) I dont have a steamer; and (2) the ...
