Photo by Lululemon Athletica. 2. Encouragement to keep going. Sometimes we attach so much significance to achieving a goal that when we experience a setback — which is inevitable at some point along the way — we just throw our hands up in the air and decide that the goal isn't worth pursuing after all. An outside party can encourage you during setbacks and plateaus or when you experience ...

No 8. Gerard Terborch (1617-81) One of the greatest of 17th century Dutch Realist genre-painters, Terborch is noted for his early guardroom scenes, but more famous for his small-scale, genteel, genre-scenes and interiors, in which the mundane is converted into high art. His meticulous eye for detail, and his ability to draw the viewer into his world, is underpinned with a perfect feel for ...

Laozi is traditionally regarded as one of the founders of Taoism and is closely associated in this context with "original" or "primordial" Taoism. Whether he actually existed is disputed; however, the work attributed to him—the Tao Te Ching—is dated to the late 4th century BCE. Taoism draws its cosmological foundations from the School of Naturalists (in the form of its main elements—yin ...

Geometric Abstraction. This type of intellectual abstract art emerged from about 1908 onwards. An early rudimentary form was Cubism, specifically analytical Cubism - which rejected linear perspective and the illusion of spatial depth in a painting, in order to focus on its 2-D aspects. Geometric Abstraction is also known as Concrete Art and Non-Objective Art.

Philosophy of art - Art as expression: The view that "art is imitation (representation)" has not only been challenged, it has been moribund in at least some of the arts since the 19th century. It was subsequently replaced by the theory that art is expression. Instead of reflecting states of the external world, art is held to reflect the inner state of the artist.
